Hello!

With 45 years of experience in business management and entrepreneurial coaching, I have dedicated my career to helping a diverse clientele, including entrepreneurs, operators, scientists, and NGOs.

Throughout my various roles, I've developed strong analytical, coaching, and support skills for executives in various industries. As well, I am an exceptional communicator and strive to be able to communicate a clear vision. What sets me apart is my unwavering belief in the power of the "human factor" in business. I am convinced that success hinges on empowering people and fostering a sense of entitlement within the workplace. This people-centric approach, combined with exceptional communication skills and the ability to convey a clear vision, has allowed me to work wonders for my clients.

One of my notable accomplishments includes my involvement in a strategic acquisition in the pharmaceutical market, doubling the size and profitability of my client's business. I've also secured national distribution for a client in the supplement industry, implementing it at a very low cost. Additionally, I played a crucial role in overhauling a human resources NGO in the life sciences sector, redefining its purpose, revamping its image, and ultimately repositioning it as a leader in its field.

My remarkable resilience traces back to my time working in my family's business, where I successfully implemented effective practices in the unique fields of pharmaceuticals and nutritional products. This laid the foundation for my ability to adapt to various types of managers and professionals, making me an invaluable asset to any business in need of guidance.

As a TEC Canada Chair, I leverage my rich career background to help members transform their operations, improve performance, and better understand their potential. With my distinctive blend of expertise, people-centric approach, and adaptability, I analyze general management and provide coaching in an entrepreneurial context.

On a personal note, I enjoy spending quality time with family, engaging in various sporting activities, and immersing myself in reading and cultural shows.

My TEC Group Vision

Our TEC Group envisions a vibrant community where meaningful encounters, mutual support, and the exchange of ideas are at the core. We strive to cultivate a model that invites individuals to step back, immerse themselves in a nurturing environment, and actively participate in engaging discussions that fuel innovation and drive growth. Together, we are dedicated to fostering an atmosphere where ideas take flight, collaborations flourish, and our members unlock their boundless potential.
