"I firmly believe in having the support of a trusted supporter in times of great uncertainty."

TEC CEO Chair
Montreal, QC

Hello!

Coaching comes naturally to me. I am deeply passionate about helping business leaders navigate challenges that others may perceive as impossible, and I feel the best when I help a business owner achieve their dreams.

Throughout my career, I have advised many business leaders in several sectors, primarily in the mining and education industry. Over two decades, I have held senior executive positions in listed companies in the mining industry and I served as President and Board Member for various organizations in the education field. My expertise also extends to securing financing for publicly traded companies in North America, Latin America, Europe, and Asia. The diversity of my experiences allows me to not only tackle challenges from all angles, but also to foresee issues and facilitate organizational shifts.

I am recognized for my ability to transform organizations both financially and culturally to solve their challenges. With a deep understanding of organizational leadership, I inspire business professionals to utilize collective intelligence for personal and professional success. My experience as a CEO have highlighted the emotional and professional isolation that leaders often face. As a result, I firmly believe in having the support of a trusted supporter in times of great uncertainty.

On a personal note, I hold the designation of CPA and specialize in organizational transformations. Additionally, I'm a speaker and author of two books covering personal finance, investments, the global economy, and personal development. From 2014 to 2018, I served as Chairman of the Board and have been a Board member of Collège André-Grasset since 2013. I also speak three languages, French, English, and Spanish, and find joy in wine, travelling, and connecting with nature.
