TEC CEO Chair
Regina, SK

Hello!

Owning and operating a business my entire career, I know firsthand that entrepreneurship is both empowering and isolating. In 2010, I co-founded The Rusty Shovel Landscape Shop, growing it from a startup to a thriving business in the landscape design and supply industry. Through rapid growth, frustrating plateaus, and ever-changing market conditions, I've developed the skills and mindset required to navigate the challenges of business ownership.

I hold a Bachelor of Business Administration (Marketing) and a Certificate in Economics from the University of Regina. My leadership and entrepreneurial achievements have been recognized with the Saskatchewan Young Professionals & Entrepreneurs (SYPE) Volta Entrepreneur of the Year award (2015) and the Regina & District Chamber of Commerce Paragon Young Entrepreneur of the Year award (2016).

When I needed to level up as a business owner and leader, I turned to TEC Canada. Over seven years as a member, I gained invaluable insights, made key mindset shifts, and accessed the peer support I needed to navigate both successes and challenges. Now, as a TEC Chair, I provide that same experience for CEOs and business owners—curating a confidential, high-impact peer advisory group where leaders can work through challenges, seize opportunities, and accelerate their growth.

Outside of work, I'm deeply involved in my community. I serve as the Saskatchewan Governor on the board of the Canadian Federation of Independent Business and stay active as a minor hockey coach, volunteer, and board member. My wife, Katlyn, and I live on an acreage overlooking Last Mountain Lake, where we keep up with our three kids—Parker on the hockey rink, and Haley and Ella on the ice as figure skaters. In my free time, you'll find me on the golf course in the summer and at the rink in the winter.

My TEC Group Vision

While you may be in business for yourself, you don't have to do it by yourself. Our TEC peer advisory group ensures you never have to make big decisions alone.
