TEC CEO Chair
Vancouver, BC

Hello!

With more than 25 years of international leadership experience across multinationals headquartered in North America and Europe (Conduent, Xerox, Orange, Alcatel), I have built deep expertise in business vision, strategic organization, and operational execution. Most recently, I co-founded a deep-tech startup in the quantum computing space, serving as CEO during the pre-seed VC funding phase. Prior to that, I spent 13 years as Chairman & CEO of a public-private joint venture in Europe's IT technology sector, leading both intrapreneurial ventures and large-scale strategic initiatives.

Fluent in English, French, and Spanish, I have lived and worked for over two decades in Asia, Latin America, Eastern Europe, and Canada, experiences that have sharpened my ability to bridge cultures, connect meaningfully with diverse leaders, and guide teams through complex change. Alongside my corporate career, I have spent nine years volunteering as an advisor to SMEs pursuing export market growth.

I became a TEC Chair to bring this blend of executive experience, entrepreneurial energy, and global perspective to a peer advisory community where ambitious leaders can challenge one another, share ideas openly, and grow both personally and professionally. My aim is to create a group environment that is as engaging and collaborative as it is strategically valuable—helping leaders navigate change, solve challenges, and innovate for the future.

Originally from France, I've called Vancouver home since 2013 and am proud to be a Canadian citizen. Beyond my work with TEC, I mentor individuals and startups integrating into the BC business ecosystem, driven by a belief that creativity and humor are essential to meaningful progress. Outside of work, I enjoy road and mountain biking, swimming, catching a deep house DJ set, spontaneous dinners with my three grown children, and soaking up the outdoors.
